Let us focus on your safety so you can focus on business

At marcus evans, the well-being of our clients and employees is our top priority and we are committed to doing everything in our power to keep our summits safe and successful. For this reason, we are taking the necessary steps to minimize risk and enhance safety for our attendees and employees.

In anticipation of the summit, we have reviewed all areas of our event and a detailed plan is currently in place; from the arrival experience to the registration process, from our one-on-one meetings to the setup of our presentations, as well as our meals and networking activities.

More by luck than design, a marcus evans summit is, by its very nature, a safe event to attend. Our events are exclusive and our one-on-one meetings are just that – they allow controlled business interactions in a safe space. Unlike large trade shows, our summits are tailored to welcome a limited gathering of c-suite executives where every precaution is taken to protect our attendees.

It is actively encouraged that participants do arrange their vaccination date prior to the event, where possible. If a participant is not vaccinated prior to the summit, it is required that a rapid test is conducted within 72 hours of arrival.
